Volume 1.

CHAUTAUQUA, ILLINOIS, APRIL, 1922.

Number 1.

THE SPIRIT OF PIAA CHAUTAUQUA

Piaa Chautauqua survives only because of its ideals. A purely money making enterprise would have died. Of any one of the numerous ills long ago. A purely amusement resort would have proven a financial ruin, for the people who are interested only in amusement parks would not be content at Chautauqua. Even now prospering as Chautauqua is, it would not be accounted a success as an amusement park.

The river, with its boating, and the swimming pool near the great river is thrilling; the meadows, the playground, the C. P. and St. L. Railroad, and the boats from St. Louis six days each week, to say nothing of the good automobile road, are prepared to bring the principal points. Is it any wonder that the throngs hither. Is it any wonder that the crowds are coming, and the people who make up these crowds are not in favor of amusements usually dominated doubtful.

One man who has a great grip on worldly investments said to us a few days ago, "If you were to ask me which building I would most prefer to see at Chautauqua, a tabernacle or a dance hall, and as worldly as I claim to be,

I would immediately answer, a tabernacle, for only right is immortal, and wrong always fails. Surely Chautauqua is immortal. Whatever is evil will pass away. What is right will stand. What is good will prevail. What is true will conquer. What is just will triumph. What is honest will be known. What is kind will be loved. What is pure will be praised. What is good will be glorified. What is true will be lasting. What is right will be victorious. What is just will be exalted. What is honest will be accepted. What is kind will be beloved. What is pure will be glorified. What is good will be lasting. What is true will be victorious. What is right will be exalted. What is just will be accepted. What is honest will be beloved. What gratifying success. This is the spirit of this wonderful place.

As a place of recreation and pleasure our Chautauqua stands for expression, not suppression; and what is wholesome is neither recreation or pleasure, nor can it so camouflage itself for long. Fun that leaves bitter poison in the cup is never offered here, is promptly denied when offered by others. Yet in all America there is no place where people young, old and middle aged have so much downright enjoyment than here. The variety of play satisfies every health, taste; and a hearty laugh, whether platform or playground produced, is recognized as a means of grace. This is the spirit of Piaa Chautauqua, hence thoughtful parents love its home likeness; social service workers delight in it, religious teachers and leaders revel in it, and character builders of all kinds rejoice in it. God has long honored the spirit of Piaa Chautauqua.

ANALYSIS OF

The Wonderful Piaa Spring

A letter from a leading chemist concerning this wonderful spring.

Dear Mr. Barnet.

Three samples of water from the spring, taken by Mr. Johnson for chemical examination in respect to fitness for household use, and being taken from the spring at the rear of the kitchen, supplying the water for Chautauqua, Illinois, and found to be identical in character and free from any contamination that would make them in any way unfit for use.

AN OUTING AT PIAA CHAUTAUQUA

Do you know the value of an outing? By an outing we mean living out in the bosom of nature, with native forest trees about you, the green grass beneath you, and God's great sky above you. The fibre of one's being becomes toughened and, like the trees, one is prepared to meet the storms of the year, and the conception of life is enlarged. A noted physician in New York said to a great crowd of Chautauquans at Jamestown, N. Y., last Summer that the healthfulness of people living in tents and out-of-doors is so much more genuine than people living in great cities. He said that a visit among the ranches of the Southwest where one can see ranchmen and shepherds will recall for months the robust bodies, and ruddy and hearty complexion of the people living westward under the open sky, and the wearying and wearying rest strain of a busy career, and will not heed the advice of their most intimate friends when they assure them that an outing will help to round out the year with greatest success to soul and body. There is no place nearer St. Louis, where so many facilities are offered for the comfort and health of guests. Our Chautauqua is a veritable health resort. Come and spend a time with us. Drink the cool water, breathe the pure air, sleep throughout the night, and wake in the morning refreshed and strengthened. Take time for an outing. It will prolong your life. You need the rest that Chautauqua furnishes if you want to lead a successful life in the departments of life. Take

As a home for a day or a week, for the Summer, Piaa Chautauqua has been care-to create an atmosphere of uncongeniality for evil doers, the sinister and dangerous elements in society that imperil tranquility and the safety and sacredness of the family circle. It has, however, been alert to be of normal and home like dwelling place of any whenever their social rank or financial status who make good neighbors, and who love good neighborhood—a place where the upright very poor may be comfortable, the right minded rich be welcome and at home, the fraternal majority who are neither very rich nor very poor, happy, and all worthy people safe, however unprotected either in the day or in the night, as we have no powders at our beautiful Summer resort. In these desires Piaa Chautauqua has had an outing at Piaa Chautauqua, the garden spot of the West. Smiles, sunshine and flowers is the motto over every public place. If you want to enjoy an outing near the bulks of the great Mississippi, purchase a ticket for the excursion to Alton, and ideal place for the excursion to Chautauqua. An ideal place for the excursion to Chautauqua, without a family to spend a happy vacation.

CHAUTAUQUA'S TO WAKE UP AMERICA

What is a Chautauqua? That is a mighty hard thing to state in terms that are understandable. Is it fundamentally entertainment or is it an educational movement? Is it dramatic in expression or is it evangelistic? Is it spiritualistic or materialistic? We answer. The Chautauqua is primarily more than entertainment, it is more than an exhibition. It is a means of expression. There are thousands in every part of the city, or country who desire some means of expressing their hopes and aspirations, their longings and pent up enthusiasm. Chautauqua when properly conducted gives an outlet to this force. The Chautauqua has done much to give ease of manner to hundreds of people, who are intellectually the equal of the very best people in the world. In every Chautauqua in America, there is the desire to banish the dark ages and to give secular dignitaries to place to the right sense of justice and light and enrich the emotional side of the community life, for every Chautauqua is organizing the masses of happier community life. Every one is going to get acquainted with his neighbor at Chautauqua. It is not the custom to know your neighbor in the city, but the greatest men and women of the nation have come to the conclusion that if we are to make this country safe for democracy, we must make friends with our neighbor and give him evidence that we, the lovers of the great Chautauqua movement, want to have happiness of mind augmented by broadening influences. Yellow novels never thrive where the Chautauqua has a hold on the people. Tenneyson has said, "Truth, beauty, knowledge are three sisters who can never be separated without tears" and that has been as well tested in the Chautauqua field as anywhere else on earth. The Chautauqua has taught thousands to be visual minded. It has brought so many church people together that it has done much to banish bigots; intolerance of other people's views has had to fight for its own existence instead of ruling. The Chautauqua has done more than any one thing to wipe out the imaginary denominational wall which has split so many communities into multitudinous factions who counted a denominational scrap as sacred duty, well performed, or that a selfishly centered denominational mutual addressation society was a form of worship. To-day we mingle with people of every creed and belief at Chautauqua, and great each as if they were a part of the family. Here you can surround yourself with congenial society and an environment that will soothe, amuse and entertain without enervation. Pack up and spend the summer at Piaa Chautauqua.

MARRIED MEN'S TROUBLES.

It was married men's night at the revival meeting. Let all you husbands who have troubles in your minds stand up, shouted the emotional preacher at the height of his spasms.

Instantly every man in the church rose to his feet except one.

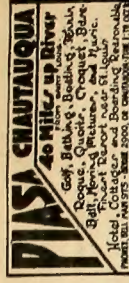

"Ah!" exclaimed the preacher, peering out at this lone sinner, who occupied a chair near the door and apart from the others. "You are one in a million."

"It ain't that," piped back this one, helplessly, as the rest of the congregation turned to gaze suspiciously at him. "I can't get up; I'm paralyzed."
